

adjective

(noun) a word that describes a noun

adverb

(noun) a word that describes a verb or an adjective attach

(verb) to put something onto something else

common nouns

(noun) words for things that are not names; usually not capitalized

effective

(adjective) doing something successfully, as intended efficient

(adjective) doing something without wasting time or energy

flash

(verb) to show something quickly

intended

(adjective) how something is supposed to be

parts of speech

(noun phrase) the types of words in English - such as noun, verb, etc.

prefix

(noun) a grammar unit attached to the beginning of a word preposition

(noun) a word that shows location or relationship etc.

proper nouns

(noun) words that are names of people and places; usually capitalized

repetition

(noun) doing something again or several times

spaced

(adjective) placed (put) some distance apart

suffix

(noun) a grammar unit attached to the end of a word

---

verb

(noun) words that show action or existence or

---

vocabulary

(noun) the words that a person knows in a language

---